Past data breaches are fueling pandemic-related fraud, but we're here to help!

With millions of Americans spending more time online than ever before and unemployment levels on the rise, it's no surprise cybercrime is spiking. We know these unprecedented times can bring many concerns. With us as your partner, your privacy doesn't have to be one of them.

What should I do if I become a victim of unemployment fraud?

We recommend taking the following steps in the order listed. This will assist in quick restoration of your identity to pre-theft status.

- Contact your Human Resources department to confirm they are working with the state to dispute the claim.

- If your employer is not handling the claim, you will need to report fraud. Because state unemployment offices do not allow any third parties on the line you will have contact your state's unemployment office directly. Please visit https://www.dol.gov/general/maps/fraud/ to find the claims department of your state Department of Labor.

- Contact the Social Security Administration at https://secure.ssa.gov/ or 1-800-269-0271 to set up an account. Check your yearly earnings report to see if anyone has been using your Social Security number for employment.
  *This step must be completed before you add the 1-year Fraud Alert

- File an affidavit with the FTC at https://identitytheft.gov/ which counts as a crime report in the majority of cases.

- File a police report with your local law enforcement. This is optional. If you do file a police report, obtain a copy for your records.

- If you are currently a member of Allstate Identity Protection, login into your portal and utilize your benefit today! If you would like to enroll, please contact your HR administrator for assistance.

- Create an account with my E-verify at http://www.uscis.gov/mye-verify/about-mye-verify. This will enable you to monitor labor and employment inquiries involving your SSN.

- Review your credit reports within the portal to ensure nothing else fraudulent exists.

- Add a free, 1-year fraud alert on your credit report. You only need to contact one of the credit bureaus to add the alert and they will transfer the info over to the other two within 24-48 hours.
